Re: MUR 5618

Dear Mr. Jordan:

This office represents Representative Scott McInnis, Friends of Scott McInnis, Inc. and its treasurer, Mr. C. Dennis King, in the above-captioned matter (collectively "Respondents"). Respondents received a copy of a complaint filed by the Colorado Democratic Party ("Complaint") on December 3, 2004, alleging – without substantiation – various violations of the "personal use" provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("Act"). As will be detailed below, the Complaint fails to provide any evidence that a violation of the law has occurred, and this response will affirmatively demonstrate that Respondents did not commit any such violation. Therefore, the Commission should find no reason to believe that any Respondent violated the Act in connection with this matter.

RESPONDENTS

At the time the Complaint was filed, Representative Scott McInnis was completing his last term in the United States House of Representatives from the third district of Colorado. Representative McInnis has since retired from the United States House of Representatives. Friends of Scott McInnis, Inc. is his principal campaign committee ("Committee"). The Committee continues to file disclosure reports with the Commission. Mr. C. Dennis King is the treasurer of the Committee.

COMPLAINT

The Complaint (at 4) alleges that "it appears that Rep. McInnis' wife, Lori McInnis, has received salary and benefits, along with the use of a vehicle and payments for utility expenses, that, at least in part, amount to personal use of excess campaign funds.” The Complaint refers to reports filed by the Committee with the Commission throughout 2004 indicating that the Committee provided Mrs. McInnis with a salary of $3,153.10 per month and benefits of $1,150 per month, paid Chrysler Financial $577.66 per month for use of a campaign vehicle, and made various payments to AT&T Wireless for cellular service, Bresnan Communications for cable internet service, and Qwest for phone service.

The Complaint does not allege any factual basis for concluding that these payments were made for personal use. Rather, the Complaint cites and includes press articles in which Mr. Michael Hesse, the chief of staff to Representative McInnis, confirms that these were bona fide campaign and officeholder expenses. Compl. at 2; Compl. Exs. A & B.

FACTS

Attached are affidavits of Mrs. Lori McInnis (Attachment A) and Mr. Orville Petersen (Attachment B), the Committee’s accountant. Mrs. McInnis explains the extent to which she was fully employed by the Committee with duties that entailed all day-to-day obligations of the Committee, assisting Representative McInnis with his representational obligations, providing him with political counsel, and winding down the Committee. McInnis Aff. ¶¶ 3-10. The Discussion section below demonstrates that her compensation for these comprehensive services was paid at a fair market value.

Mrs. McInnis explains the Committee’s need and use of an automobile. She, along with Mr. Petersen, detail how Mrs. McInnis and Representative McInnis recorded their de minimis personal use of the vehicle. They further explain how this de minimis use was accounted for and treated as additional income to Mrs. McInnis. McInnis Aff. ¶¶ 5, 11-13; Petersen Aff. ¶¶ 4-8.

Lastly, Mrs. McInnis explains that the Committee paid for equipment in connection with an office maintained in the McInnis home that was devoted to Committee affairs and Representative McInnis’ officeholder duties. The Committee paid for communications equipment including a separate phone line, a separate cable line for internet access, and cellular phones. Any personal use of this equipment was de minimis and did not entail any additional cost to the Committee. McInnis Aff. ¶¶ 14-17.

LAW

A. Procedural Requirements for Filing a Complaint.

“Any person who believes a violation ... has occurred, may file a complaint with the Commission.” 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(1). The Commission’s regulations state that a proper complaint “should contain a clear and concise recitation of the facts which describe a violation of a statute or regulation over which the Commission has jurisdiction.” 11 C.F.R. § 111.4(d)(3). The Commission has explained that it “may find that a complaint which does not comply with [this regulation] provides insufficient information, and for that reason, may vote to take no action on a complaint.” 45 Fed. Reg. 15080, 15088 (March 7, 1980).

B. Substantive Law Regarding “Personal Use.”

“A contribution accepted by a candidate, and any other donation received by an individual as support for activities of the individual as a holder of Federal office may be used by the candidate or individual—

- (1) for otherwise authorized expenditures in connection with the campaign for Federal office of the candidate or individual;
- (2) for ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in connection with duties of the individual as a holder of Federal office;”

2 U.S.C. § 439a(a). These expenses include the “costs of winding down the office of a former Federal officeholder for a period of 6 months after he or she leaves office.” 11 C.F.R. § 113.2(a).

The Commission has opined that former officeholders may continue to use campaign committee funds to defray political and campaign committee expenses even after they have left office. FEC Advisory Opinion 1993-6, approvingly cited in FEC Advisory Opinion 2002-5. Furthermore, the funds may be used to defray those expenses that are incurred by the former officeholder’s spouse. Id.

“A contribution or donation ... shall not be converted by any person to personal use.” 2 U.S.C. § 439a(b)(1). “[A] contribution or donation shall be considered to be converted to personal use if the contribution or amount is used to fulfill any commitment, obligation, or expense of a person that would exist irrespective of the candidate's election campaign or individual's duties as a holder of Federal office including—

(A) a home mortgage, rent, or utility payment;¹

(C) a noncampaign-related automobile expense;....

2 U.S.C. § 439a(b)(2). "Personal use" also includes "any use of funds in a campaign account of a present or former candidate" for:

Salary payments to a member of the candidate's family, unless the family member is providing bona fide services to the campaign. If a family member provides bona fide services to the campaign, any salary payment in excess of the fair market value of the services provided is personal use.

Id. §§ 113.1(g), 113.1(g)(1)(i)(H). Lastly, the Commission's regulations provide additional guidance regarding automobile expenses:

If a committee uses campaign funds to pay expenses associated with a vehicle that is used for both personal activities beyond a de minimis amount and campaign or officeholder-related activities, the portion of the vehicle expenses associated with the personal activities is personal use, unless the person(s) using the vehicle for personal activities reimburse(s) the campaign account within thirty days for the expenses associated with the personal activities.

11 C.F.R. § 113.1(g)(1)(ii)(D).

¹ The Commission has explained that the regulations implementing this provision should not "be read to prohibit a campaign committee from paying the cost of long distance telephone calls associated with the campaign, even if those calls are made on a telephone located in a personal residence of the candidate or a member of the candidate's family. Since these calls are separately itemized on the residential telephone bill, they can easily be attributed to the campaign without raising allocation issues." 60 Fed. Reg. 7862, 7865-66 (Feb. 9, 1995)

DISCUSSION

A. The Complaint Fails to Allege Facts that Constitute a Violation of the "Personal Use" Restrictions.

The Complaint should be dismissed against all Respondents because it provides no facts to support the claim that the Committee's funds were converted to personal use. The face of the Complaint details various expenditures made by the Committee, but does not provide or allege facts, affidavits, or any other basis to support the claim that the expenditures were for personal use and were not made for campaign or officeholder purposes.

The Commission's regulations require "a clear and concise recitation of the facts which describe a violation" in order to avoid unsubstantiated complaints and the expense and effort associated with disproving them. The only facts provided in the Complaint are those indicating that the Committee made salary and benefit payments on Mrs. McInnis' behalf, campaign vehicle payments, and payments for cellular phone service, cable internet service, and telephone service. Yet, these are all expenditures contemplated by the Act and Commission regulations. The Complaint does not provide any evidence that these expenditures were made for personal purposes. In fact, the quotations by Mr. Hesse in the press articles appended to the Complaint affirmatively rebut the Complaint's unfounded assertion that the expenses "amount to personal use."

Simply alleging that these payments were made does not "describe a violation." For example, the use of cellular phones by campaign committees has become ubiquitous and expenditures for them likely appear in a majority of campaign committee disclosure reports. But alleging this alone does not "describe a violation." Rather, a complaint must provide factually supported allegations that the cellular phones were actually used for personal purposes. The mere fact that a campaign committee reported expenditures for cellular phones that could have been used for personal purposes cannot sustain a valid complaint that they were in-fact used for personal purposes. Otherwise, every candidate committee that reports expenditures for cellular phones would be vulnerable to complaints filed by political opponents. This would work an absurd result.

The Complaint describes expenditures by the Committee that are explicitly permitted under the Act and Commission regulations. It nonetheless concludes that

Mr. Jeff S. Jordan
January 17, 2005

the expenditures were made for personal use, but fails to provide any factual basis for this claim. The Complaint's unsubstantiated conjecture does not contain "a clear and concise recitation of the facts which describe a violation" as required by Commission regulations. Accordingly, the Complaint has not made out a valid claim against any of the Respondents and should be dismissed.

B. Respondents Did Not Violate the "Personal Use" Restrictions.

The Complaint fails to allege facts to support its conclusory allegations of personal use because no such facts exist. The expenditures listed in the Complaint for salary and benefit payments for Mrs. McInnis, campaign vehicle payments, and payments for cellular phone service, cable internet service, and telephone service were all legitimate campaign and officeholder expenses that were properly paid by the Committee.

1. Salary and benefit payments to Mrs. McInnis were for bona fide campaign services and were paid at a fair market value.

Commission regulations state that campaign committee funds may be paid to family members and will not be considered "personal use" provided that the payments are for bona fide services and are paid at fair market value. 11 C.F.R.

§ 113.1(g)(1)(i)(H). Furthermore, the Commission has explained that campaign committee funds may even be used to defray the expenses of former officeholders and their spouses in connection with political and campaign committee activities. FEC Advisory Opinion 1993-6.

The Affidavit of Lori McInnis describes the extent to which Mrs. McInnis assumed all duties in relation to the operation of the Committee in 2004 including those that had been previously held by another individual employed by the Committee. McInnis Aff. ¶ 3, 9.² Mrs. McInnis' Committee duties entailed all day-to-day operations of the Committee as well as assisting Representative McInnis with his representational obligations throughout the congressional district and the state.

² The Committee's termination of the other employee demonstrates that in 2004 the Committee started to wind down its activities.

2504124592

Mr. Jeff S. Jordan

McInnis Aff. ¶ 4, 5.³ She also served as a de facto political adviser to Representative McInnis and the Committee. McInnis Aff. ¶ 6. These activities did not abate when Representative McInnis announced his decision to retire in September of 2003. McInnis Aff. ¶ 5. That decision itself was cause for additional constituent outreach that entailed correspondence and participation in various "thank-you," "good-bye," and other retirement-related travel and events. McInnis Aff. ¶ 5. Mrs. McInnis also assumed all duties related to the winding down of the Committee including the review and archiving of thousands of Committee documents and records. McInnis Aff. ¶ 8. These obligations were all-encompassing. They required that she be available at all times and often required that she work at night and on weekends. McInnis Aff. ¶ 10.

According to copies of the Committee's reports that are attached to the Complaint, Mrs. McInnis was compensated at a salary of $3,153.10 per month and with benefits of $1,150 per month for a total of $4,303.10 per month. In comparison to compensation paid by the campaign committee of Representative McInnis' successor, as well as that paid by the campaign committees of other Members of Congress who also retired from office after 2004, Mrs. McInnis was compensated at or below fair market value for the comprehensive services she provided to the Committee. A review of these other committees' 2004 October quarterly reports proves this point.⁴

For example, reports filed by John Salazar for Congress, the campaign committee of Representative McInnis' successor, indicate that John Salazar for Congress had payroll expenses of $34,144.16 and $27,369.81 in July and August, respectively. (Attachment C). The campaign committees of two retiring Members of Congress, Representative Jennifer Dunn and Representative Jack Quinn, both reported salary expenses on behalf of their campaign committees in excess of that paid to Mrs. McInnis. Friends of Jennifer Dunn reported salary payments to two employees that totaled $5,699.92 per month. (Attachment D). Quinn for Congress reported bi-weekly salary payments to two employees that totaled $5,094.76 during one four week period in July and $5,193.48 during the following four week period in August. (Attachment E).

Mrs. McInnis was compensated at $4,303.10 per month for her comprehensive services. This amount is less than the compensation paid by other committees similarly situated. Accordingly, Mrs. McInnis was compensated for bona fide services to the Committee at fair market value as required by 11 C.F.R. § 113.1(g)(1)(i)(H). Therefore, her compensation does not qualify as "personal use" under the Act or Commission regulations and the Complaint's insinuation to the contrary is unfounded.

2. Committee expenditures for a campaign vehicle were made in connection with campaign and officeholder duties, and personal use was de minimis.

Commission regulations expressly permit a Committee to pay expenses associated with a campaign vehicle for Committee and de minimis personal use. 11 C.F.R. § 113.1(g)(1)(ii)(D). Personal use beyond a de minimis amount must be reimbursed. Id.

In addition to their personal vehicle, Representative McInnis and Mrs. McInnis maintained a campaign vehicle at their home to conduct Committee affairs throughout the congressional district and the state. McInnis Aff. ¶ 11. The vehicle was the only practical means of traveling throughout the congressional district for these purposes given the large size of the district – roughly equivalent to the State of Florida – and the fact that both commercial and private air travel is impractical due to the lack of point-to-point commercial air service and the mountainous and inhospitable terrain. McInnis Aff. ¶¶ 5, 11. Personal use of the vehicle only accounted for 532 miles out of 5211 miles driven in 2004. McInnis Aff. ¶ 12; Petersen Aff. ¶ 7. However, this figure is inflated due to a bookkeeping oversight whereby Representative McInnis' officially-related use of the vehicle was improperly recorded as personal use. McInnis Aff. ¶ 13. The actual number of miles driven for personal use is lower than 532 miles, though an exact figure is not available. McInnis Aff. ¶ 13. Nonetheless, the Committee captured this de minimis use of the vehicle and treated it as income paid by the Committee to Mrs. McInnis. McInnis Aff. ¶ 12; Petersen Aff. ¶¶ 4-6.

Though not required to reimburse for such de minimis use, the Committee nonetheless attempted to do so. Its accountant employed a tax-based methodology

Mr. Jeff S. Jordan

to account for all potential personal use – including Representative McInnis’ officially-related use that was improperly recorded as personal use – and to convert all personal use into additional income to Mrs. McInnis.⁵

The Complaint’s assertion that Representative McInnis’ and Mrs. McInnis’ personal use of the campaign vehicle amounts to a violation of the Act is at odds with both the law and the facts. Commission regulations permit de minimis personal use of a campaign vehicle and Representative McInnis’ and Mrs. McInnis’ personal use did not exceed a de minimis amount. Furthermore, even this de minimis amount was accounted for and treated as income to Mrs. McInnis. Accordingly, Respondents have not used Committee funds to pay expenses associated with a campaign vehicle in a manner inconsistent with the Act and Commission regulations.

3. Committee expenditures for home office equipment – including a separate phone line, a cable internet connection, and cellular phones – were made in connection with campaigns and officeholder duties.

As a general matter, campaign committee funds may be used to make expenditures in connection with campaigns for federal office or duties as a federal officeholder. 2 U.S.C. § 439a(a). They may not be converted to personal use. Id. § 439a(b)(1). Funds are converted to personal use if they are used to fulfill an obligation or pay for an expense that would exist “irrespective of the candidate’s election campaign or individual’s duties as a holder of Federal office.” Id. § 439a(b)(2).

Representative McInnis and Mrs. McInnis maintain an office in their home devoted to Committee affairs. McInnis Aff. ¶ 14. The equipment in the office includes a computer, copy machine, fax/printer, a phone line separate from their primary/personal line, and a cable internet line, all of which is used almost exclusively for Committee and other officially-related purposes. McInnis Aff. ¶ 14. Any personal use of this equipment is de minimis and poses no additional cost to the Committee. McInnis Aff. ¶ 15. When the primary/personal phone line in the home is used for Committee or officially-related purposes and itemized long-distance charges accrue, only those charges are paid with Committee funds. McInnis Aff. ¶ 16. Lastly, the Committee maintains three cellular phones that are used to conduct Committee affairs whenever a Committee phone line is not available. McInnis Aff.

⁵ Mrs. McInnis is ultimately responsible for paying taxes on the additional income that she derives from personal use of the vehicle, and she has done so. McInnis Aff. ¶ 12.

¶ 17. Again, any personal use of the cellular phones is de minimis and poses no additional cost to the Committee. McInnis Aff. ¶ 17.

Mrs. McInnis has stated in her affidavit that the office equipment in the McInnis home was devoted to Committee affairs. McInnis Aff. ¶ 14. Furthermore, the office equipment expenditures would not have been incurred irrespective of Representative McInnis' status as a federal candidate or officeholder. The all-encompassing nature of their profession demands that Representative McInnis and Mrs. McInnis be available at all times and often requires that they work at night and on weekends while they are in their home. These unique demands require that they maintain appropriate office equipment in their home so that they may tend to Committee and officially-related affairs as necessary.⁶

Lastly, cellular phones are an absolute necessity for Representative McInnis and Mrs. McInnis given the amount of time they are traveling in connection with Committee and officeholder duties throughout the congressional district and the state. A cursory review of almost any campaign committee report to the Commission will reveal that cellular phones have become a ubiquitous expenditure for campaign committees.

Accordingly, the Complaint's allegations that the Committee's payment of expenses for phone service, cable internet service, and cellular phone service amounts to "personal use" of Committee funds is unfounded. Expenditures for this and all other office equipment amounted to ordinary and necessary costs incurred in connection with Representative McInnis' campaigns for federal office, his duties as a federal officeholder, and winding down activities. They would not have been incurred irrespective of his capacity as a federal candidate or federal officeholder.

⁶ As indicated by the Commission when it promulgated the implementing regulations to the statutory prohibition, the prohibition was intended to guard against the payment of household expenses that could not "be easily attributed to the campaign without raising allocation issues." See note 1 supra. Accordingly, a campaign committee may not pay a portion of the mortgage payments or other utility payments in connection with the operation of a campaign committee office in a candidate's home because there is no readily discernable way to determine which portion of the mortgage and utilities were required to operate the office portion of the home. This concern does not arise in the instant matter where neither mortgage nor utility expenses were paid with Committee funds, rather, only discrete equipment devoted to Committee and officially-related affairs was paid for with Committee funds.

CONCLUSION

The Complaint does not allege facts regarding personal use of campaign funds sufficient to establish a valid cause of action against Respondents, and Respondents have not converted campaign funds to personal use. Accordingly, the Commission should find no reason to believe that Respondents violated the Act.

Sincerely,

Jan Witold Baran
Caleb P. Burns

BEFORE THE FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION

In the Matter of)
The Honorable Scott McInnis,)	MUR 5618
Friends of Scott McInnis, Inc. and C. Dennis King, Treasurer)

Affidavit of Lori McInnis

1. My name is Lori McInnis, and I make the following statements to the best of my knowledge and belief.
2. My husband is Representative Scott McInnis.
3. I began working for Friends of Scott McInnis, Inc. ("Committee") on a volunteer basis when Representative McInnis first ran for the United States House of Representatives in 1992. By 1998, my volunteer work for the Committee was on a full-time basis. In 2001, I was employed with compensation by the Committee. At roughly the same time, the Committee hired Linda Claussen who was also employed with compensation by the Committee. Linda and I were the only compensated employees of the Committee from 2001 until Linda's employment was terminated in early 2004. My compensated employment by the Committee continued through 2004.
4. Since 1998, I have been responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Committee and Representative McInnis' campaigning. My duties entail review and payment of all bills and other Committee correspondence, interaction with and management of all Committee vendors and volunteers, review of and response to daily campaign and constituent requests, recordkeeping and reporting, fundraising, and management of the Committee's finances and investments. It would be impossible for me to list with specificity all of my Committee obligations. Suffice it to say, there was no aspect of the Committee's day-to-day operations that I did not oversee.
5. My Committee duties also entail assisting Representative McInnis with his representational obligations throughout the congressional district and the state. This includes scheduling, arranging, and accompanying Representative McInnis to constituent appearances and those on behalf of other candidates and Republican Party organizations at the state and local levels. Given the large size of the congressional district – which is roughly the size of the State of Florida – travel took a considerable amount of time and effort. These activities did not abate when Representative McInnis announced his decision to retire in September of 2003. That decision itself was cause for additional constituent outreach that entailed correspondence and participation in various "thank-you," "good-bye," and other retirement-related travel and events.
6. Representative McInnis also relied on me for political advice and consultation. I come from a family of elected officials and I am intimately familiar with Representative McInnis' congressional district. Accordingly, I participated in substantially all political meetings and discussions regarding Representative McInnis' political decisions and corresponding Committee activity.

7. In the fall of 2003, Representative McInnis became ill. After a series of doctor visits, he underwent surgery in December and did not fully recover until March of 2004. During that time, I assumed all Committee and representational obligations with constituents that he would have otherwise handled.

8. When Representative McInnis ultimately decided to retire, I assumed all duties related to winding down the Committee including the review and archiving of thousands of Committee documents and records. I was uniquely qualified to take on this task given my thorough familiarity with the Committee's day-to-day operations.

9. Before her termination in early 2004, Linda Claussen's duties entailed fundraising and administrative work. After her termination, I assumed her administrative duties in addition to my own management and other above-described responsibilities. From that point forward, I was the only paid employee and I was responsible for the entire operation of the Committee.

10. The duties described in the preceding paragraphs required that I be available at all times and often required that I work nights and weekends. They were so extensive that they precluded me from seeking any other employment.

11. In addition to our personal vehicle, Representative McInnis and I maintain a campaign vehicle to conduct Committee affairs throughout the congressional district and state. The campaign vehicle was a necessity due to the large size of the congressional district, the lack of point-to-point commercial air service within the district, and the mountainous and inhospitable terrain that makes private air travel impractical.

12. Representative McInnis and I made de minimis personal use of the campaign vehicle which we accounted for and treated as additional compensation income to me for federal income tax purposes. To accomplish this, I kept a log of the vehicle's personal use by recording the mileage driven for personal purposes. The Committee's accountant converted the miles driven into a dollar value. This amount equaled $852 in 2004 for 532 out of 5211 miles driven. The accountant treated this amount as compensation income to me for federal income tax purposes rather than as a reimbursable expense. I pay taxes on this additional compensation.

13. In the course of my review of these records, I have discovered that Representative McInnis' officially-related use of the vehicle was improperly logged as personal use. This error has artificially inflated the amount of personal use of the vehicle. Had the officially-related use of the vehicle been correctly excluded from the log, the miles and dollar value attributed to compensation income in the paragraph above would have been even lower.

14. Representative McInnis and I also maintain an office in our home that is devoted to Committee affairs. The office contains a computer, copy machine, fax/printer, a campaign phone line separate from our primary/personal line, and a cable internet line. All expenses for this equipment have been paid with Committee funds and are used for Committee purposes.

15. Representative McInnis and I use the separate campaign phone line to conduct phone calls and to operate the fax on behalf of the Committee. We use the cable internet line to communicate via electronic mail. Any personal use of the separate phone line and cable internet line, as well as any other equipment in the office, was de minimis and did not entail any additional cost to the Committee.

16. When Representative McInnis or I use our primary/personal phone line for Committee purposes, the Committee pays for only those calls that accrue long-distance charges and are separately itemized on the phone bill.

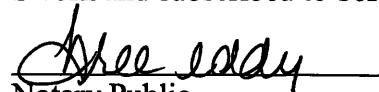

17. When Representative McInnis, Committee volunteers, or I conduct Committee affairs away from a phone line dedicated to Committee use, we utilize cellular telephones that are paid for by the Committee. Cellular phones are for Committee affairs and personal use is minimized. Again, whatever personal use was made of the cellular phones was de minimis and did not entail any additional cost to the Committee.

18. At all times, Representative McInnis and I are cautious and careful not to convert Committee funds to personal use.

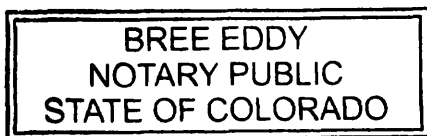

Under penalty of perjury and any other penalties possibly applicable under law, I swear that the foregoing statements are true to the best of my knowledge, belief, and recollection, and after due investigation of all my records.

Affidavit of Orville Petersen

1. My name is Orville Petersen, and I make the following statements to the best of my knowledge and belief.
2. I am employed by Chadwick, Steinkirchner, Davis & Co. as a Certified Public Accountant.
3. I am the accountant responsible for assisting with the reporting, bookkeeping, and tax matters in connection with the operation of Friends of Scott McInnis, Inc. ("Committee")
4. Once the Committee purchased a vehicle, my responsibilities also included applying a methodology that would appropriately account for the personal use of the vehicle for federal income tax purposes.
5. Each year my staff and I accomplished this by using a worksheet entitled Fringe Benefit Compensation Value for Employer-provided Vehicle ("Worksheet") which is used to calculate the value of an employee's personal use of an employer-provided vehicle for federal income tax purposes. The resulting figure is treated as additional income and is included on an employee's Form W-2 Wage and Tax Statement. The Worksheet employs the Annual Lease Value Method which is prescribed by the IRS to calculate the amount of the additional income at a rate comparable to the value of a vehicle lease payment for the same percentage of personal use.
6. My staff and I complete the Worksheet on behalf of the Committee based upon information about the Committee's vehicle provided to me by Lori McInnis which includes an annual log of the number of personal miles driven. My staff and I include the resulting additional income with Lori McInnis' total compensation on her Form W-2 Wage and Tax Statement. Lori McInnis is ultimately responsible for paying personal income taxes on that total amount.
7. The amount of additional income for personal use of the Committee's vehicle equaled $852 in 2004 for 532 out of 5211 miles driven. A copy of the Worksheet is attached as Exhibit 1.
8. This amount is equal to $1.60 per mile and is obviously far in excess of the standard IRS reimbursement rate of $.375 per mile.

Under penalty of perjury and any other penalties possibly applicable under law, I swear that the foregoing statements are true to the best of my knowledge, belief, and recollection, and after due investigation of all my records.
